Kumara Vyasa

Kumara Vyasa (Kannada: ಕುಮಾರವ್ಯಾಸ) is the pen name of Naranappa (Kannada: ನಾರಣ್ಯ), an influential and classical poet of the Kannada language in the early 15th century. His pen name is a tribute to his magnum opus, a rendering of the Mahabharata in Kannada. Kumara Vyasa literally means Little Vyasa or Son of Vyasa (author of Māhābhārata). He worked in the court of Devaraya II. His magnum opus, Karnata Bharata Kathamanjari, was completed in 1430 when Deva Raya II was ruling the Vijayanagara empire. Kumara Vyasa earned high esteem as a poet in his court. Kumara Vyasa was mentioned by other prominent poets of the 15th century, such as Kanaka Dasa and Timmanna Kavi. Kumara Vyasa lived in Koliwad, a village 35 km from Gadag in North Karnataka. A pillar in the Veera Narayana temple of Gadag exists to this day (And I had a great fortune of visiting the temple). According to popular legend, Kumara Vyasa is said to have composed his work at the temple. A pillar in this temple is also known as Kumara Vyasa's pillar. Kumara Vyasa's Karnata Bharata Kathamanjari (the Mahabharata of Karnataka) is popularly known as Gadugina Bharata and Kumaravyasa Bharata. It is an adaptation of the first ten Parvas of the Mahabharata. A devotee of Krishna, Kumara Vyasa ends his epic with the coronation of Yudhishtira, the eldest of the Pandavas. The work is celebrated in Kannada literature due to its universal appeal. Gadugina Bharata is composed in the Bhamini Shatpadi meter, a form of six lined stanza. Kumara Vyasa explores a wide range of human emotions, examines values, and displays extensive mastery over vocabulary. The work is particularly known for its use of sophisticated metaphors. Kumara Vyasa is also renowned for his characterization. Karnata Bharata Kathamanjari is also known as Dasha Parva Bharata because it originally had only 10 parvas as opposed to the 18 in the original Mahabharata. Kumara's Kathamanjari covers only up to the Gadayuddha, the battle between Duryodhana and Bheema, killing Duryodhana. The subsequent parts of the original Mahabharata such as Sauptika, Stree, Shanti, Anushasana, Aswamedhika, Ashramavasika, Mausala, Mahaprastanika and Swargarohana parvas are not included. It may be noted that Lakshmeesha, another great poet who was born a few decades after Kumara Vyasa's composed Kannada Jaimini Bharata based on the Ashwamedhika Parva as narrated by Jamini. There is a strong belief among locals that Kumara Vyasa was a blessed poet of Sri Veera Narayana, another name of Lord Vishnu. The poet sat in front of sanctum sanctorum in the temple and Narayana himself narrated the story of the ancient Mahabharata from behind the statue. The poet transformed the story into an excellent poetry. However, Narayana laid down a condition that Kumara was to only listen to this voice without attempting to see the source or the spirit narrating the story. When the 10th parva of his work was complete, Kumara developed deep curiosity to see the narrator. Much to his surprise, he saw Narayana himself narrating the story. He also saw a scene of the Kurukshetra War as if it were happening in front of him. However, Kumara had violated the condition of not exploring the source of the voice. At that point, the lord disappeared and the narration of Mahabharata stopped forever. Kumara Vyasa has shown an exemplary style of writing in the introduction. He proudly claims that his poetry is matchless and that it caters to the taste of all kinds of readers. He writes that in his poetry "A king enjoys the valor, A brahmin the essence of all vedas, philosopher the ultimate philosophy, ministers and state administrators the tact of rule and lovers the romantic notes". In addition, he proudly acclaims that this work of his is the "Master" of the works of all other great scholars." However, his selflessness may be noted when he says he merely noted all that was narrated by his lord, the actual poet. Want more? Advanced embedding details, examples, and help! Kumara Vyasa (Kannada: ಕುಮಾರವ್ಯಾಸ) is the pen name of Gadhugina Veera Naranappa (Kannada: ಗಧುಗಿನ ನಾರಣ್ಯ), a classical poet of Kannada. His pen name is a tribute to his magnum opus, a rendering of the Mahabharatha in Kannada. Kumara Vyasa literally means Little Vyasa or Son of Vyasa. Place and Time The period of Kumara Vyasa's life had been a subject of scholarly dispute. Scholarly opinion placed his time in varying periods starting from the 12th Century to 16th Century. However, opinion has now agreed that Kumara Vyasa lived during the late 14th and early 15th Centuries. His magnum opus, Karnata Bharata Kathamanjari was completed in 1430 when Deva Raya II was ruling the Vijayanagara empire. Kumara Vyasa earned high esteem as a poet in his court. Kumara Vyasa's historicity is also based on the fact that other prominent poets of the 15th century, such as Kanaka Dasa and Timmanna Kavi, have mentioned his works. Kumara Vyasa lived in Koliwad a village 35 km from Gadag in North Karnataka. He is also called Narayanappa. A pillar in the Veera Narayana temple of Gadag exists till date. According to popular legend, Kumara Vyasa is said to have composed his work at the temple. This pillar is also known as Kumara Vyasa's pillar (Kannada: ಕುಮಾರವ್ಯಾಸ ದೇವಸ್ಥಾನ, ಗದಗ). Works Kumara Vyasa's most famous work, the Karnata Bharata Kathamanjari (The Mahabharata of Karnataka)is popularly known as Gadugina Bharata and Kumaravyasa Bharata. It is a sublime adaptation of the first ten Parvas (chapters) of the Mahabharata. A devotee of Krishna, Kumara Vyasa ends his epic with the coronation of Yudhishtira, the eldest of the Pandavas. The work is easily the most celebrated in Kannada literature. Its fame arises due to its universal appeal. Gadugina Bharata is composed in the Bhamini Shatpadi meter, a form of six lined stanza. Kumara Vyasa explores a wide range of human emotions, examines values, and displays extensive mastery over vocabulary. The work is particularly known for its use of sophisticated metaphors. It has earned him the honor of Rupaka Samraja Chakravarti (Emperor of the World of Metaphors).[citation needed] Kumara Vyasa is also renowned for his characterization. Karnata Bharata Kathamanjari is also known as Dasha Parva Bharata because it originally had only 10 parvas as opposed to the 18 in the original Mahabharata. Kathamanjari was not complete. Reliable sources of information goes like this - The lord Narayana would narrate the story of Mahabharata that took place several years ago from behind the temple's statue. Kumaravyasa would listen to the story and translate it into poetry. Lord had laid down a condition that Kumara was to only listen to this voice without attempting to see the source or the spirit narrating the story. This was a daily routine and went on for years. One day, at the stage when the 10th parva of his work was complete, Kumara developed deep curiosity with impatience and wanted to desperately see the narrator. Much to his surprise, it is said he saw the lord himself narrating the story. He also saw a scene of kurukshetra battle and it seemed it was happening in front of him again. However, Kumara had violated the condition of not exploring the source of the voice. At that point, the lord disappeared and the narration of mahabharata story stopped forever. Kumara's Kathamanjari covers only till the Gadayuddha, the battle between Duryodhana and Bheema, killing Duryodhana. The subsequent parts of the original Mahabharata like the Yudhishtira Pattabhishekha, Ashwa Medha yaaga and the Swargaarohana parva are not included. It may be noted that Lakshmeesha, another great poet who was born a few decades after Kumara's death, took up and completed AshwaMedha yaaga parva alone in his work "Jaimini Bharata" in Kannada. This spiritual work was considered equal to Kathamanjari for its literatural ecstasy and the fragrance of narration it emits. There is a strong belief among locals that Kumaravyasa was a blessed poet of Sri Veera Narayana i.e. Lord Vishnu. The poet used to sit in front of sanctum sanctorum in the temple and the Lord himself narrated the story of the ancient Mahabharatha from behind the statue. The poet transformed the story into an excellent poetry. Kumaravyasa has shown an exemplary style of writing in the introduction. He proudly claims that his poetry is matchless and that it caters to the taste of all kinds of readers. He writes "A king enjoys the valor, A brahmin the essence of all vedas, Philosopher, the ultimate philosophy, ministers and state administrators the tact of rule, Lovers, the inspiration. Besides this he proudly acclaims that this work of his is the "GURU" of the works of all other great scholars." However, his self-lessness may be noted when he says he merely noted all that was narrated by his lord, his actual poet". The other, lesser-known work of Kumara Vyasa's is Airavata. Influence on Kannada Literature Kumara Vyasa's works belong to the Kannada language#Phases of evolutionNadugannada (Middle-age Kannada)period of Kannada literature. His influence on later Kannada literature is significant. Gadugina Bharata is still widely read. It is popularly sung in a unique style known as Gamaka. Pic credit: PinterestWhen we hear the word Mahabharata, we kannadigas always remember our very own "Kumara Vyasa". Yes! he is credited with compiling the Sanskrit epic Mahabharata in Kannada. His work is popularly known as "Karnata Bharata Kathamanjari" or "Gadagina bhārata" (attributed to his place Garage). It is also known as Kumara Vyasa Bharata and Kannada Bharata. Historians speculate that Kumara was a poet of the 14th century. He was born as Narayanappa in koliwada village(now in Dharwad district). He created the first Mahabharata in Kannada language and was entitled "Kumara Vyasa" (son of Vyasa) because of his work. His work is very elegantly embodied in nadugannada(middle Kannada) in the form of 6 lines stanza. Kuvempura describes him as "When Kumara Vyasa sings Kaliyuga will be gateway to dwaparayuga"Kumara Vyasa Pillar@ Narayana temple Pic credits: PinterestThe story behind how the Mahabharata was written in Kannada is very exciting. Lord Sri Narayana came in the dream of Kumara Vyasa saying he would recite the Mahabharata and asked him to pen it down. But he was put on two conditions. The first is that Kumara Vyas should come to the Narayana temple at Gadag and create the work and the second is not to try to find the place where the sound of chanting comes from. As Kumara Vyasa was devoted began writing with a voice coming from behind the statue of Narayana at the Narayana Temple. He was very close to complete the 10th chapter, which portrays the fight between Bhima and Duryodhana (Gadha yuddha). Many years had passed by then. By the time he completed the Gadha yuddha, he couldn't control his curiosity and went in search of divine voice. When he looked behind the idol of Narayana in search of the source of the divine sound, he was surprised to find that Srimannarayana himself was reciting Mahabharata, and was shocked to see scenes of the entire Mahabharata taking place behind the idol. Narayana stopped reciting as Kumara Vyasa broke the promise. Even Kumara Vyasa did not complete the great poem, feeling that he had betrayed Narayana. He left the Mahabharata incomplete but it is believed that he wrote only what was directed by Lord Narayana. Another poet of the Vijayanagara Empire has completed the poem which was left in half many years later.This was the story of the author and work behind the Mahabharata of Kannada! kumara vyasa mahabharata in kannada pdf
